

Oahu Directory Animal Service Agencies 2011

Compiled by

HAWAIIAN
HUMANE SOCIETY

We hope that you find this Animal Services Directory valuable so that we can all support the public in finding the right authorities for animal-related concerns.

This booklet was published by the Hawaiian Humane Society as a public service in support of our mission in the community to promote the humane treatment of animals and the human-animal bond.

Hawaiian Humane Society is Oahu’s only animal welfare organization that shelters, rescues, adopts and welcomes all animals — all day and every day. We hope that you’ll support our efforts in the community. To learn more about us, visit hawaiianhumane.org. We are a local nonprofit that has served Hawaii’s animals and people for more than 100 years. We are independent from organizations statewide and on the Mainland. Because we are not a chapter of any organization, our work and this booklet are made possible by donations.

Contact hhs@hawaiianhumane.org for updates to this directory.

For more than 100 years, Hawaiian Humane Society has served as a focal point of Oahu's animal community and plays an ever-evolving role as mediator on the changing relationship between people and animals. Here are a few facts you may not know!

- The Humane Society was organized on the grounds of Iolani Palace in 1883. Interestingly, King Kalakaua, a founding Society member, deemed cockfighting unacceptable to the Hawaiian community and outlawed it.
- In 1897, Helen Kinau Wilder was given the authority to enforce animal cruelty laws. Today, our officers respond to more than 17,000 calls for help every year. Specializing in animal law enforcement and criminal justice, they are deputized by the Honolulu Police Department. Outside of HPD, they are the only authority on Oahu who can rescue animals and investigate cruelty on behalf of the City & County of Honolulu.
- Hawaiian Humane Society is the second oldest charity in Hawaii, the first is the YMCA.
- In its early days, the Society protected primarily working animals, unwed mothers, adopted out children, and cared for those with mental illness. The Society's mission of creating a "humane society" has always been about people as much as animals.
