Instructions for Setting Humane Animal Trap

Push top half of trap door in; using your other hand, pull up door raising both parts to the top of the trap. On the right hand side is a trip lever (hook). Pull it towards you latching the hook to the top of the trap to hold the door up. The trap is now set.

If the trip lever becomes bent, it may be straightened with a small wrench or pliers. The end of the trip lever should be slightly angled toward the front of the trap.

Place bait in the rear of the trap.

Bait Suggestions

For cats, mongoose or rats, use any of the following: chicken parts, tuna, canned cat food, or meats.

Cats sometimes will not enter the trap because they do not like walking on the wire bottom. Try placing leaves or dirt over the floor of the trap, being careful not to block the quick release platform in the rear of the trap.

When baiting the trap, make a path of bait from the front of the trap, through the door, and setting the bulk of bait in the rear of the trap. For difficult cats, try burying the bait under the trap (directly under the quick release platform) or tying a piece of meat to the floor in the rear of the trap.

If still not successful, try feeding the cat several nights without the trap. Then set the trap as described above.
